OUR HERIONE for MAY 2022

Saafi Yassin, 55 from Dheenta Village, Somaliland

“ Islamic Relief’s trainings and the capacity building had transformed the old-style way we used to trade the milk ”

Islamic Relief Somalia’s PFBR Project supported Dheenta village milk business women in Somaliland.

Islamic Relief Somalia started the implementation of Preventing Famine and Building Community Resilience to Shocks (PFBR) project targeting drought affected villages and women group milk vendors among other groups. It is supported by IR USA and aims to improve the food security and resilience of drought-affected households in the Bulahar and Lughaya districts of Somaliland. The project aim to provide access to food and income to 16,330 beneficiaries and strengthen their livelihood through skill development and income opportunities.

As milk dealers play an important role in dairy development by creating linkages between milk producers and consumers and ensuring milk quality and safety. Islamic Relief launched provision of basic training on clean and hygienic milk handling while it improved the quality of the milk products and the trust of the customers of the milk after the capacity building.

41 milk business women from Dheenta village and Borama district of Somaliland benefited seven days training on good milk hygiene standards and good practices in its management. Saafi Yassin, 55 years old mother was among the beneficiaries who benefitted the training. Ms. Saafi has been in milk trading for almost seven years while she used to sell in a traditional manner.

“I used to sell milk for years but has no idea of basic milk processing techniques and its good storing” “We thank Islamic Relief for the seven days training, it has really improved us on good milk handling”, says Ms. Saafi.

“Islamic Relief’s trainings and the capacity building had transformed the old-style way we used to trade the milk. Now, things have enhanced interims of sanitary and milk processing methods. Thanks to Islamic Relief and the donor for the delightful assistance”, says Ms. Saafi.
